Mrs. Graham and Nancy Nelson discuss the rules of rhetoric.

To Mrs. Violet Graham and Mrs. Gladys Hemenway

Dedication is a rare and valuable quality today. To two women who have exhibited this spirit we dedicate the 1967 Nova. These women, Mrs. Violet Graham and Mrs. Gladys Hemenway, have both devoted their lives to the education of youth and are now retiring.

Mrs. Graham was educated in her home state of Montana, receiving her B.A. from the University of Montana. She taught English and mathematics in Montana and Washington and spent a year tutoring in France. Then she came to Tacoma, where she taught English for 20 years at Stadium and nine years at Wilson.

Mrs. Hemenway grew up in Texas, earning her B.A. at Texas Women's College and her M.S. at the University of Texas. She taught Spanish, general science, and social studies in Texas and Colorado before coming to Tacoma. Here she taught Spanish at Stadium and then Wilson. Like Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Hemenway spent the last nine years of her career at Wilson.

Both women have devoted time to Girls' Club, Mrs. Graham as advisor of Publicity Department and Mrs. Hemenway of Decorations Department. Thus they have proved an inspiration to students both inside and out of the classroom. Though they will be missed when they leave Wilson, students and faculty alike will remember them with appreciation and admiration for their undying dedication to the education of young people.

Mrs. Hemenway scores A-LM tests.

Dear Donna, It has been a real pleasure getting to know you this year. You are one of the sweetest girls I know. You are just adoring your hair. Remember the day the gym teacher asked us why we were crying and we had a character and I said we were crying because we are a very sweet couple with a character. Love ya much, Kathy

Donna, Have a great Summer + stay out of trouble. You've got the greatest personality and are a very sweet girl. Have fun + I wish you lots of luck Love Shonnie

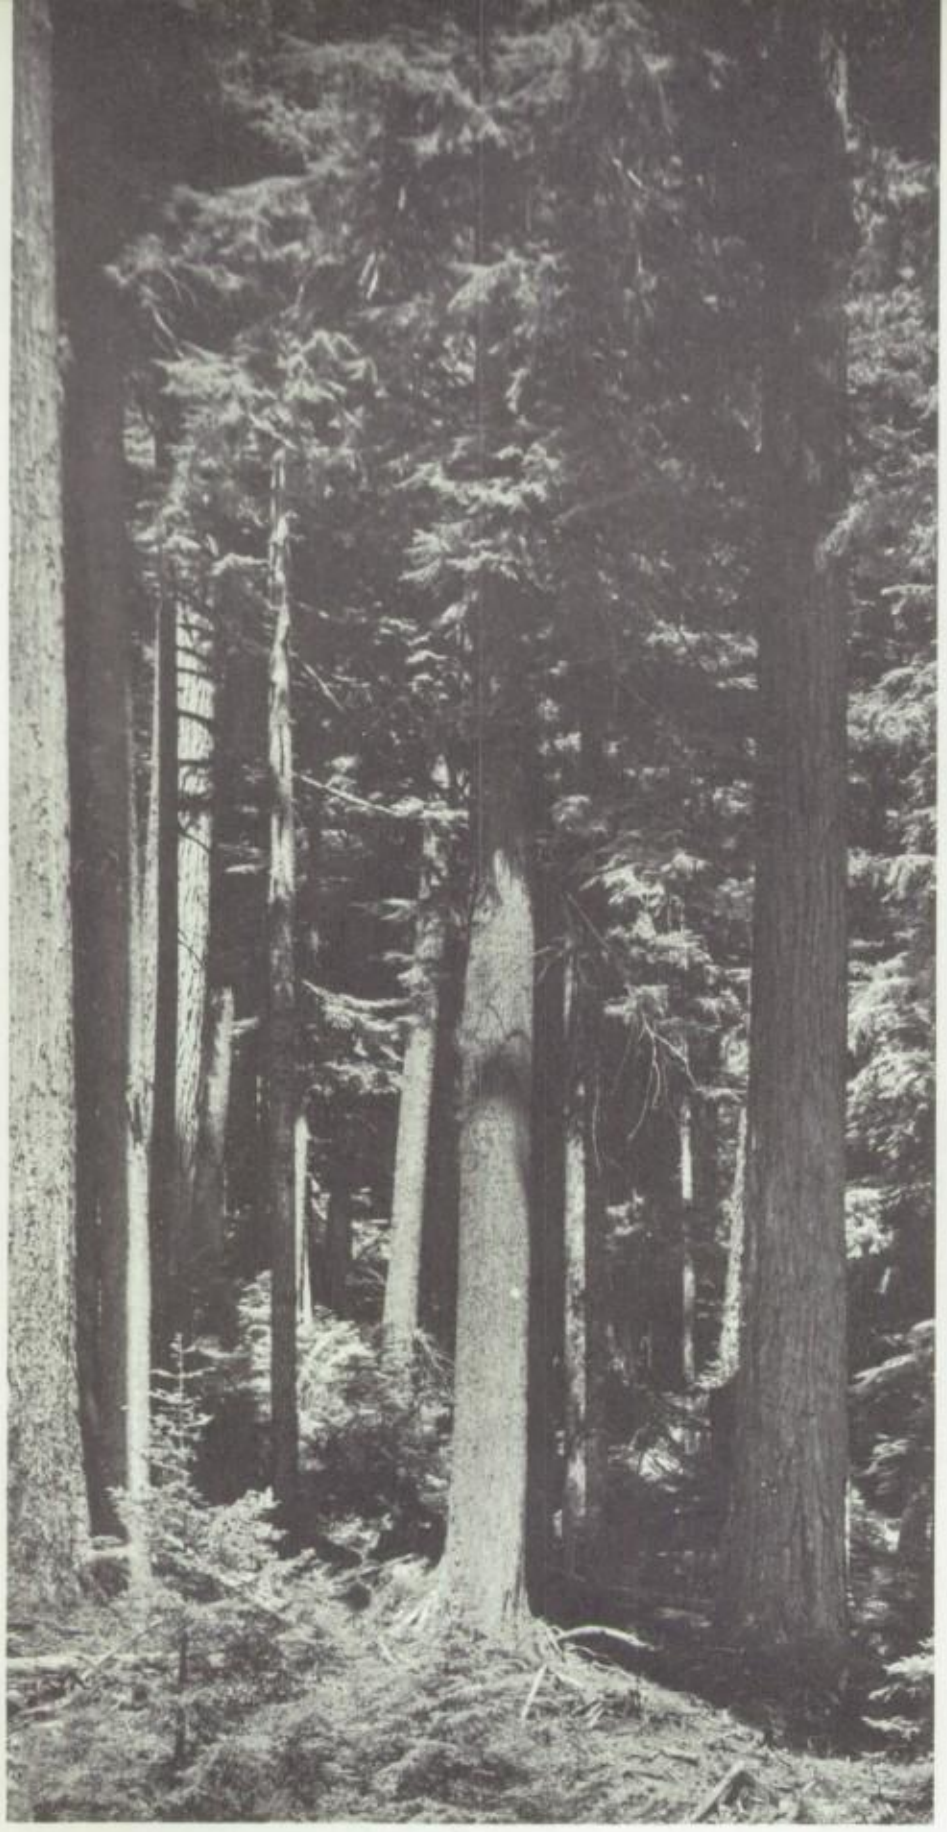
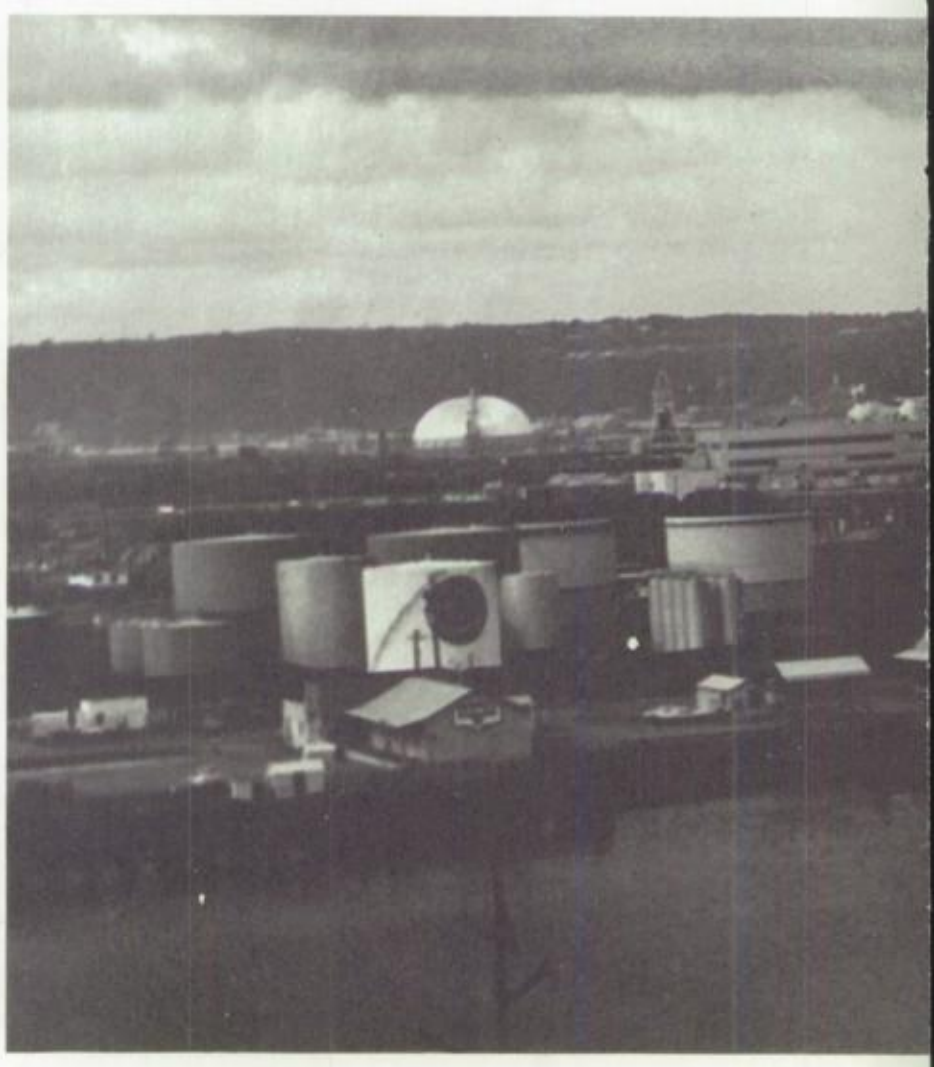
The world was left unfinished so men might share in the satisfactions of creation.

Electricity was left in the clouds.

Mountains were left untrailed and waters unbridged.





Forests were left unfelled and cities unbuilt.

Classrooms were left unopened.

Ours is the challenge of raw materials, not the enervation of perfectly finished things.

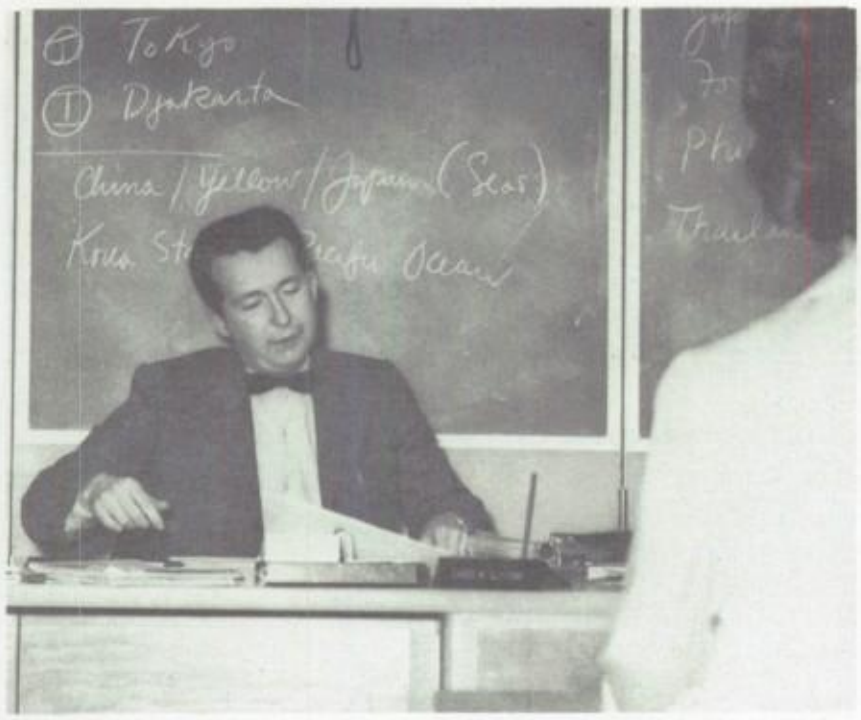
School Board Handles Problems Vital to District 10

Principle changes with which the Tacoma School Board was concerned were two rules that affected Wilson High School. One of the rules dealt with de facto segregation, and the other concerned student insurance. The first change made it possible for students to attend any junior high or high school in the city. The latter ruling required that students desiring a parking permit show proof of insurance.

Meeting bi-monthly, the board concerned itself with the policies of School District No. 10. Working to keep the schools financially and scholastically sound, they devoted their valuable time to maintaining the high level of education in the Tacoma schools.

The School Board discusses one of its many problems.



Mr. Gaylord speaks to parents at PTA

Attempting a new approach this year, the P.T.A. held two "Back-to-School' nights instead of the traditional one. The first program found parents of sophomores visiting their children's classes and the parents of juniors and senors attending a college discussion led by Mr. Moe. The second program afforded junior and senior parents the opportunity of visiting classrooms, while sophomore parents attended a lecture on the high school testing program. The new plan went smoothly, helping to avoid much confusion.

Presiding at the monthly meetings was Mrs. George Parker, president. Mrs. Parker was responsible for circulation of monthly bulletins and for planning any P.T.A.-sponsored activities. The year was a success, as parent-teacher relations profited greatly from the activities.

Principals Supervise All Areas of School Activity

Following busy schedules, Maynard Ponko, Ellis Johnson and Jack Beer fulfilled their jobs as head administrators smoothly and effectively. Mr. Ponko, principal, evaluated school policy and acted as liaison between Wilson and other schools.

As assistant principal, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Beer handled the enforcement of school rules and regulations. Mr. Johnson also worked with the counselors in student programming. Mr. Beer supervised extra-curricular activities both in club and athletic programs. The three principals worked harmoniously to make Wilson a more efficient school.

Counseling Staff Offers Individual Aid to Students

James Shook
Senior Counselor

Helping the students solve their problems kept Wilson's five guidance counselors busy throughout the year. Clarence Johnson, sophomore and testing counselor, worked with Mrs. Leona Summers in guiding the sophomores through their first year at Wilson. Palmer Berge worked with juniors and offered assistance to those in need of vocational advice. James Shook helped seniors round out their final year of high school. Advising college-bound students was Kenneth Moe, who completed applications and supervised interviews with visiting college representatives.

In addition to the counseling staff, Ethel Stamatakis, nurse, and Floramae Phillips, librarian, performed their special duties efficiently.

Working for the Administrations Department, Wilson's secretaries helped to keep the school running smoothly. This year's attendance clerk was Mrs. Jean Herron. She handled all re-entries and dismissals, and she also trained a number of girls in office administration. Mr. Moe's secretary was Mrs. Lois Colby. Her responsibilities included handling appointments and college testing fees. Working under class counselors were Mrs. Jean Simon and Mrs. Allison Duncan.

Mrs. Dorothy Tatton and Miss Bernice Christensen worked as secretaries for the principals and handled all front office activities, and Miss Christensen was responsible for the bookkeeping. Assisting the librarian this year was Mrs. Seay. She oversaw all library activities in Mrs. Phillips' absence. All secretaries worked to keep the school in good order and were very successful in doing so.

Foreign Language Classes Broaden Student Outlook

Bonjour, Jean. Guten tag, Louisa. Hola, Isabel. Students in first year French, German, and Spanish classes began their courses of A-LM study by steady repetition of these sentences. Students memorized basic dialogues and studied seemingly endless structure drills in order to perfect pronunciation and increase understanding of the languages. A four-year program was offered in each of the three languages. An advanced course for fifth year German students presented the challenge of independent study.

Another foreign language offered this year was Latin. Particularly appealing to those students interested in science or medical careers, Latin also attracted students who wished to gain a thorough understanding of basic language structure. By studying the outstanding works of ancient Rome, Latin students gained an awareness of history as well as the language.

Independent research and study were the unique features of Wilson's new ancient history course. Members of the class chose their topics and worked individually, pursuing varied interests.

Other electives included two courses in philosophy and one in world history. Problems of philosophy dealt with the age-old problems of the world, while senior philosophy explored systems of logic and the history of philosophy. World history, which was offered to anyone interested, provided an excellent background for other fields of study.

Required courses included United States history for juniors and world problems and American government for seniors. Economics and political science replaced these classes for some seniors.

Science Prompts Questions and Individual Research

Science has played an integral part in our automated and complicated world. Wilson science classes provided students a basis for understanding their environment.

Biology students learned about plants and animals; chemistry students studied the periodic chart and reactions between elements; aviation students devoted their time to the airplane; physics participants studied the laws of nature; and general science students probed the make-up of the earth. Each course was provided with superior equipment and was received with due interest.

To meet the demands of the students, Wilson's Mathematics Department added another teacher to the staff, bringing this year's total to seven. Another change in the staff was the appointment of Carl Moore to department head.

Curriculum included geometry, trigonometry, calculus, and five levels of algebra. Calculus was a college level introductory course offered to seniors who had completed Algebra 5 in good standing.

Business Courses Prepare Students for the Future

The addition of new equipment and new ideas provided Wilson's business department with an extensive training program. Departmental additions were an electric typewriter, a shorthand transcription room, and an electronic shorthand laboratory. Also new to the department was a course for boys in handling business machines. The purpose of this class was to prepare boys for executive jobs by teaching them to use the equipment now standard in many offices.

Traditional classes were supplied with the new equipment to benefit the students. Along with typing, shorthand, business math and law, and bookkeeping, distributive education was offered to provide a glimpse of retailing and marketing careers. All of these courses prepared students either for college or immediate careers.

Home Economics Courses Prepare Girls for the Future

Instructing girls in basic homemaking skills was the job of the Home Economics Department. Four basic classes were offered: foods, clothing, tailoring, and home economics. Girls participating in foods classes acquired the skills and knowledge involving nutrition and purchasing and preparing foods. Clothing classes gave girls an understanding of fabric selection, fashion, and sewing technique. Interested students continued to a tailoring course where techniques were perfected. Home economics was a course offered to students who wanted a background in home management and child care. In order to graduate each girls was required to have two credits involving one of these four courses.

Industrial Arts Participants Develop Manual Skills

Appealing to boys and girls alike, Wilson's industrial arts department offered a number of courses. Among those in which girls participated were general drafting, artcraft, and electricity. Other basic courses offered were transportation, woodshop, and metal shop. Those interested in continuing their study could go on to architecture in the field of drafting. Others continued their work at vocational school, where they received high school credits. The varied courses offered an opportunity for many students to become acquainted with fields in which they may make their careers.

English Students Explore the Works of Great Men

Dessie Larsen

"To be, or not to be: that is the question." This familiar quotation from Shakespeare's Hamlet echoed throughout senior literature classes this year. Sophomores and juniors also encountered Shakespeare in Julius Caesar and Macbeth.

Sophomores devoted their semester of literature to an introduction to Greek myths, poetry, and a variety of essays. Juniors followed American literature from the founding of the country to the present, and senior classes did the same with the literature of England.

Wilson composition classes are well known for their excellence. The regularly-assigned themes, though dreaded, provided valuable experience in written communication.

Also included in Wilson's language arts department were drama and public speaking classes. Through actual experience, students acquired the ability to express themselves effectively through oral communications.

Music, Art Students Acquire Skill and Appreciation

Sensitivity to the fine arts is not merely the ability to hum a tune or admire a painting; it is rather a deep appreciation of all forms of art. The way to gain this is through experience. Thus, Wilson's art students set out to experiment with chalk, water colors, and collages. They also worked with shadowing, portraits, and abstracts. Classes were also available to students who wished to learn about the commercial aspects of art.

Music students explored the variations of melody and the beauty of perfect harmony. They became acquainted with many different composers and their various works. Several different performing groups, both instrumental and vocal, gave concerts throughout the year. Through experience, students of the arts learned the genius required in great artists, thus truly appreciating their work.

DVR Aids Students in Developing Practical Skills

Paul Rushfeldt

Wilson's Division of Vocational Rehabilitation is a program designed to help students with a vocational handicap to adjust to the work-a-day world. The program .s comparatively new; it was in 1964 that the Washington State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and the Tacoma School District met to make DVR possible. This year the program was filled to capacity; 36 students participated. While completing their high school graduation requirements and working in the community, the students found time in February for a field trip to Olympia to observe the legislature in action. DVR gave the student who needed help a head start in a job he could do well and enjoy.

Sophs Participate in Well Balanced PE Program

Physical education was a required course for all sophomores. Wilson's department operated on a trimester basis, the purpose of which was to provide the students with 12 weeks of swimming and 24 weeks of gym exercise. Each class was divided into three groups based on swimming ability. While one group participated in pool activities, the other groups exercised and learned the basic skills of speedball, basketball, volleyball, baseball, and tennis.

Everyone who actively participated in the physical education program learned the importance and enjoyment involved in keeping fit.

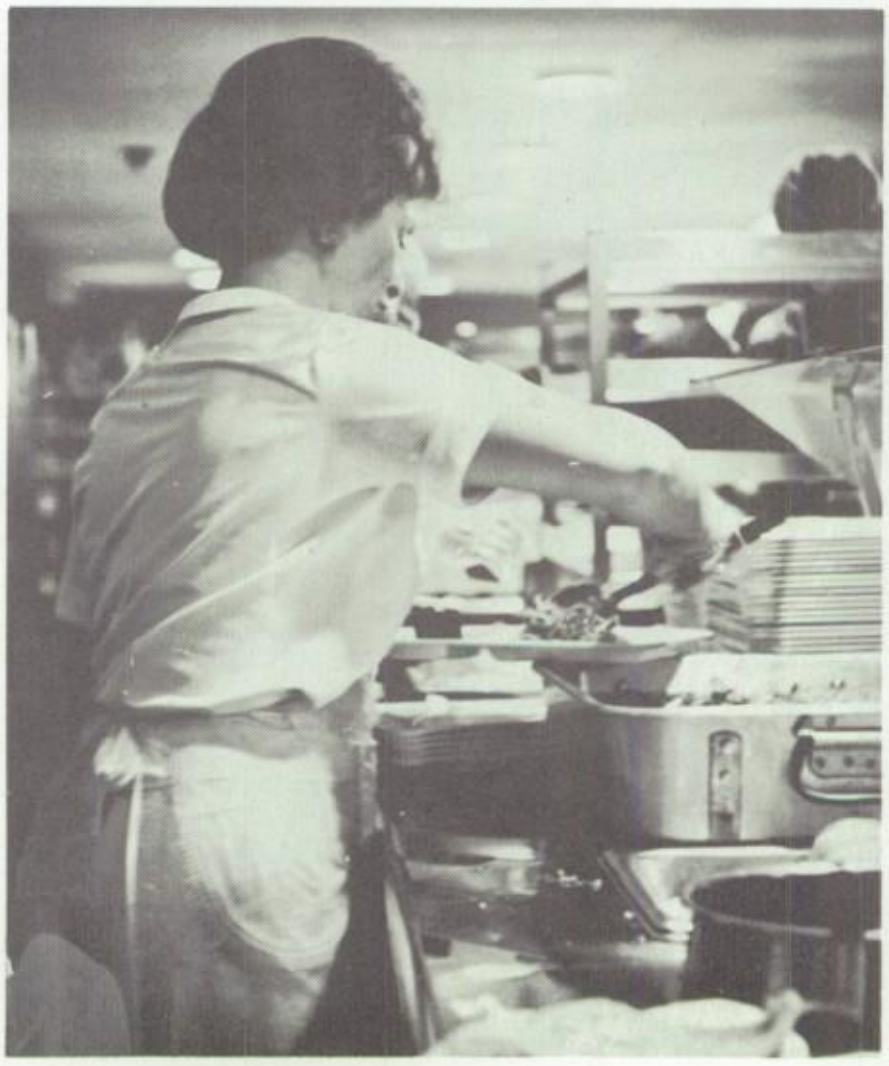
Wilson Cooks Plan and Prepare Healthful Lunches

E. Hewitt, R. Murkey, P. Dyer, I. Tinsman, V. Hess, T. Pal, M. Michelson, A. Whitney, B. Battle, F. Kruciz, N. Tallman, J. Doust

Every morning as hungry students counted the minutes until their lunch period, Wilson's skillful cooks were busy preparing tasty, well-balanced meals. Their afternoons were spent cleaning tables and pots and pans for the next day's work. Separate lunch lines for hamburgers, soup, main dish, desserts, and salads provided a variety of foods from which to choose.

Beside their regular work, Wilson's kitchen staff donated their talents to Girls' Club Teas and the annual Spaghetti Dinner.

Lunches prepared by cooks in the morning . . .



. . . are served to hungry students at noon.

One of the most vital parts of Wilson's smooth-running operation was the custodial department. Thirteen men worked under the supervision of Joe Gosnell to keep the school in order. At the close of the day, each man worked in his assigned area, restoring order and cleanliness for the next day. Wilson custodians, like students, had extra-curricular duties. Events taking place at night or on a weekend meant extra hours for them. While assuming the role of school guardians, the custodians acquired a great deal of school spirit and were often seen at games, cheering the teams on to victory.

Mr. LaGue cleans up after a busy day.

"Student Council acts as the link of communication between the student body and faculty and more or less regulates all the activities pertaining to the student body as a whole." This, in the words of President Steve Shelton, was the primary function of this year's Student Council.

With exceptional vigor Council tackled problems ranging from activity tickets to the parking lots. Standing and special committees drew their members from Council's wide representation: the A.S.W. officers, senior class officers, junior and sophomore class presidents and boys' and girls' representatives, block chairmen, and representatives from Nova, Banner, pep staff, and pep band. Shim, Wilson's foreign exchange student, was an honorary member. The committees worked toward recovering original responsibilities delegated to them, including the operation of the student store, use of the hot chocolate machine, and approval of the student body budget.

Highlighting the year was the annual Spaghetti Dinner. To make the dinner a success, committees were set up to arrange food and money donations, plan entertainment, and advertise. Council initiated a new practice which allowed the various clubs to raise money by selling tickets.

This year's Student Council worked toward becoming actively involved in student affairs. Examples of their desire to represent the students directly were the open meetings and opinion polls which Council held. A genuine concern and contagious enthusiasm marked the impact of this year's student government.

Representatives Air Opinions in Delegate Assembly

Jim Otness addresses roll room representatives in morning meeting.

To communicate views of the students of Wilson as accurately as possible, each roll room elected at the beginning of the year a representative to Delegate Assembly. Besides this direct representation from the student body, Delegate Assembly included the block chairmen, the class presidents, and the student body vice president, who presided over the meetings. Delegate Assembly acted as a direct link between the student body and their representatives in Council.

Block Chairmen Present Student Opinion in Council

At the beginning of the year, the students in each hall elected one person to be their representative to Student Council. In Council, the block chairmen communicated to the student body officers the problems of the students. To learn these problems and to inform the students of the actions of Student Council, the block chairmen circulated throughout their halls speaking and giving students a chance to speak. They attended all Delegate Assembly meetings. Beside acting as a link between students and Student Council, block chairmen served on standing and special committees throughout the year. They were active in helping prepare for the annual Spaghetti Dinner and in helping roll rooms arrange their fund-raising projects for the American Field Service drive.

Girls' Club activities began with the Little Sister Picnic. Held in August at Owens Beach, the picnic introduced incoming sophomores to upperclassmen and allowed all girls to renew old friendships. In an assemby at the beginning of the year, the Girls' Club Council was introduced to all girls.

In February, 420 couples danced to the music of the Dave S. Quintet at the annual Girls' Club Tolo. Decorations at the Tacoma Mall carried out the theme "The Sweetheart Tree."

Girls' Club continued to correspond with its foster sister, Eleanor Beaver, a Navajo Indian girl in New Mexico. The girls also sponsored a Christmas tea in December and a Father-Daughter Banquet in April.

Girls' Club provided countless opportunities for service, and every girl who participated was rewarded with the personal satisfaction of helping others.

Successful Pom-Pon Sale Boosts Varja Treasury

At initiation, Nancy Repp explains one of the four Varja qualities.

Twice a month, 37 Wilson girls appeared at school dressed in red blazers. They were members of Varja, Wilson's girls' honorary, which recognized scholastic achievement and served the school.

Admission to Varja was obtained by acquiring a grade point average of at least 3.2 and earning service points through such projects as selling programs at games, baking cookies for dances, and working in the concession stand. Girls who satisfied these requirements were initiated into the club in the fall and spring.

Led by officers Karen Dubois, Nancy Zittel, Sue Swanes, Nancy Repp, and Merry Abeel, Varja sponsored activities ranging from the Big Sister-Little Sister Breakfast on the first day of school to ushering at Commencement. Members also ushered at all plays and concerts and at Back-to-School Night. In the fall, they sold pom-poms and sponsored a pizza party for members of honoraries in the city. In December, Varja provided an enjoyable evening of entertainment and food at the annual Mother-Daughter Dessert, "An Old-Fashioned Christmas." A progressive dinner was held to honor departing seniors, and a gift was donated to the school, thus ending a satisfactory year.

Sponsored by the Fircrest Kiwanis Club, Key Club served Wilson and the community through many projects. These included canvassing for the March of Dimes and providing a Christmas party and gifts for the children of the Home on the Hill Orphanage.

The Christmas season presented the boys with other opportunities for service. Key Club members caroled in Fircrest, donated a Christmas tree to the Commons, and gave baskets of food to needy families. To increase their treasury, the club members sold themselves to Kiwanis Club members in a slave auction and sponsored a dance after the Ram Relays. In the spring an outstanding club member received a scholarship. This year's Key Club officers were Terry Robinson, president; Steve Annest, vice president; Fred Akins, treasurer; Jim Otness, secretary.

Interact Provides Service to School and Community

Interact members restrain crowd at basketball game.

Service to Wilson and the community marked the year for Wilson's newest service club — Interact. Sponsored by Rotary, a businessmen's service club, Interact's activities included ushering at home football and basketball games, donating a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family, and raising money for charity. Funds were obtained through such projects as working as bus boys for a catering service and selling second-hand books.

The club met every other Wednesday evening in the staff dining room. The meetings were conducted by president Dave Condon, vice president Chuck Snow, secretary Gary Benson, and treasurer Ron Payne. They featured such topics as alcoholism, skiing, and the ascent of Mr. McKinley. In January the boys attended a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club.

Roll Room Representatives Head Red Cross Drive

At the beginning of the school year, each roll room elected a representative to the Junior Red Cross. During November these representatives received donations to Red Cross from the students in their roll rooms. The donations were acknowledged with traditional Red Cross membership cards and pins. Officers were Steve Jensen, president; Judy Olsen, vice president; Jim Whitacre, secretary; and Marilyn Laird, treasurer. The elected officers and the other representatives performed only one service all year, but their work was done well.

Lettermen's Club is a service organization honoring outstanding athletic achievement. Among their money-raising projects this year were the sale of booster cards and letters, a dance, a booth at the Cotton Carnival, and a Homecoming game featuring the Lettermen against the Alumni. Members also ushered at some home basketball games. Profits from these projects sent a blind child to a summer camp and provided a $100 scholarship for one letterman.

Presiding over meetings was Dave V. Voss, president. Other officers were Doug Henshaw, vice president; Mike Spencer, secretary; Dave T. J. Voss, treasurer; and Rob Squires, sergeant-at-arms.

Pep Club turns out en mass to root for basketball team.

Vivid Pep Club Posters, Ribbons Encourage Victories

Noisy, spirited support of the team was the trademark of this year's Pep Club. However, the 50 members of the club manifested their enthusiasm in more ways than merely screaming at games. They posted score calendars in the commons for wrestling, basketball, and swimming and pep posters in the cafeteria, commons, and main hall. They chartered buses for the games in West Bremerton and Olympia and sponsored a pep assembly preceding the Hoop-Go-Round. In the spring they donated a gift to the school.

Under the leadership of president Don Dosa, vice president Cindy Larson, secretary Kathy Farron, and treasurer Wendy Robins, Pep Club also sponsored several fund raising activities. Among these were a bake sale and the sale of pep ribbons before football and basketball games.

The whole student body experienced the effects of the enthusiastic group; that spirit proved contagious and resulted in an exciting year for all.

Wilson's chapter of the National Honor Society began the year with the sale of picture packets to underclassmen. At the announcement of semester grades, officers sent invitations to juniors and seniors who qualified with a 3.5 or better. New club members were invited to a tea in the library. An exchange with an Honor Society from a Seattle school was held later in the year. A committee composed of students and advisors decided on recipients for a scholarship.

Officers were Steve Annest, president; Kirk Sulenes, vice president; Margie Swanstrom, secretary; and Kathy Wiborg, treasurer.

Trip to "Bavarian" Highlights German Club Activities

Karen Crum leaves for dinner at the Bavarian.

"Rather than study more about the language our purpose was to further understanding between the German-speaking countries and the members of the club." This, according to president Mike Schuyler, was the basis of German Club's successful year. With vice president Margaretha Lindwood, secretary Susan Gregurich, and treasurer Wayne Pazina, Mike worked to better acquaint the members with German culture.

At the monthly meetings the members enjoyed films explaining aspects of German life and talks by speakers who had toured the country. In January the group had dinner at the Bavarian Restaurant, where they sampled such delicacies as sauerbraten, kartoffeln, and rouladen.

Breaking pinatas and sampling food were featured as part of the activities of this year's Spanish Club. A group comprised mostly of advanced Spanish students banded together under the leadership of president Sue Kalinosky,, vice president Kris Kade, publicity chairman Gretchen Krona, and secretary Diane Bundrock to further study the culture of Spanish-speaking peoples.

Throughout the year the members viewed films about Spain and listened to speakers explaining various aspects of Spanish life. To gain experience using the spoken language they performed skits in Spanish. A fiesta banquet held in the cafeteria for the student body highlighted the year. Candy canes were sold during December and a party in the spring concluded Spanish Club's successful year.

French Club gave third and fourth year French students the opportunity to improve their conversational skills and have fun at the same time. Every third Tuesday Mrs. Nightingale supervised the slides or skits that were presented at the meeting.

Besides the regular club meetings, the group enjoyed various activities. These included a Christmas party, trips to French movies, and a special French meal at the Winthrop Hotel. Members this year decided to purchase special French Club pins.

While planning a spring party to end the year, the club officers — Sue Swanes, president; Marjorie Reberger, vice president; and Kathy Heckard, secretary-treasurer — agreed that French Club had a successful year.

Mr. Hodous speaks at a Latin Club meeting.

Latin Club Holds Annual Skating Party in January

"Et tu, Brute?" This year's Latin Club entertained literature, history, and Latin classes with scenes from Roman plays. To add to the effect of the productions the actors wore togas, which the club members had constructed out of white cotton. In addition to presenting skits and making togas, the members of Latin Club translated poems and sent two delegates to the Junior Classical League Convention in Bremerton.

Highlighting the year in January was the traditional skating party at the Lakewood Ice Arena. The club concluded the year with a party at Janet Palmer's beach place.

Marc Warner prepares debate for city tournament.

"Resolved: That the foreign aid policy of the United States be limited to non-military assistance." This was the topic discussed by Wilson debators at five tournaments throughout the state. The tournaments took place at Western Washington State College, University of Puget Sound, Seattle Pacific College, and Mt. Tahoma High School. In addition to the regular debates, individual speakers competed for trophies in the categories of impromptu, extemporaneous, oral interpretation, and oratory.

Under the leadership of president Marc Warner, vice president Marvin McCartney, and secretary-treasurer Barb Haley, the club sold Nova covers and sponsored a talent show.

Santa Comes to Wilson; DE Students Sell Pictures

DE students run student store during lunch period.

The purpose of the Retailing Rams was to study all phases of merchandising, which would aid members in future business positions. Interested Distributive Education students ran the Student Store, arranged mannequins in the show case, and sold Livewires. At Christmas, the Rams brought Santa Claus to the Wilson cafeteria to pose for pictures, hear Christmas wishes, and sell candy canes. A delegate was sent to the Yakima State Conference of Distributive Education Clubs.

Part of the course included part-time jobs for most students. This proved vital experience in learning how to relate to an employer. The year was climaxed by an employer-employee banquet.

This year's officers were Dan Moller, president; Nancy Petermeyer, vice president; Kathy Corbin, secretary; Wendy Barde, treasurer; and Ken Hall, sergeant-at-arms.

Stage Crew Decorates School for Holiday Season

Building props for school plays and working on dance decorations were a few of Stage Crew's responsibilities. Under the leadership of Tom Spaulding, the group maintained all public address equipment in the gym, cafeteria, and pool and controlled lighting and audio effects in the assemblies. In addition to helping with the Christmas assembly, Doll-Phin show, and swim meets, the Stage Crew decorated the school with lights for the Christmas season. Working behind the scenes, Stage Crew devoted its time to increasing everyone's enjoyment of school activities.

History Society Tours Site of Famous Seattle Fire

Drawn together by a common interest, the members of History Society increased their knowledge of the past by taking field trips and listening to speakers. A trip through the Seattle Underground enabled them to view the basement levels of old Seattle buildings. The basements were originally ground floors before the city fathers raised the street level after the Seattle fire. In Olympia they met Governor Evans and visited the State Legislature, Treasury, and Supreme Court. To gain an insight into the beginning of the Jazz Era, the club sponsored a banquet featuring Joe Jordan as speaker.

Other speakers were Walter C. Schnackenberg, professor at Pacific Lutheran University, who spoke on Franco-American relations, and Professor Jon M. Bridgman of the University of Washington, who spoke on the rise of Naziism in Germany. To raise money the members sold mistletoe during December. This year's activities were organized by Judy Morgan, president; Maxine Spellman, vice president; Sue Hall, secretary; Kris Boedecker, treasurer; and Marcie Wright, historian.

Spring Matches Decide Tennis Club Championships

A petition, a constitution, and an approval from Student Council set the newly-formed Tennis Club rolling last November. In the fall the club members played in friendly competition on Wilson's courts. Springtime found them in fierce competition vying for the school championship. In the meantime, the club sponsored two bake sales and sold tickets for Wilson's spaghetti dinner. Leading the activities were Chris Giske, president; Joan Chandler, vice president; Steve Saylor, treasurer; and Cheryl Helgeson, secretary.

Besides furnishing recreation for the members the club provided excellent training for those interested in turning out for the tennis team.

Putting out a yearbook is not a simple task. The Nova staff soon realized this as they worked during sixth period, study hall, before and after school, and even during vacations.

Though the staff was at first inexperienced, through on-the-job training they acquired the skills of writing copy, designing original layouts, and selecting pictures.

After collecting all the necessary materials the staff began pasting the copy, headlines, and pictures on the pages as they now appear in the Nova.

Staff Works Frantically to Send Banner to Press

Frantic preparations characterized the week before each Banner publication. The process began with reporters writing their assigned stories. After being proofread and set the articles were pasted to the pages and then sent to the publisher for printing.

The goal of the staff was to inform the students of school activities and to give the students a means of expressing their own ideas. Examples of their efforts were "Ram Rumblings," a collection of small bits of news; "College Knowledge," a section with advice for college-bound students; and "Enraged Citizen," a column reserved for anyone wishing to express an opinon on a current school issue.

The varied moods of Mr. Stell

Eighty voices blended this year to form the mellow sound of Wilson's A Cappella Choir. Directed by Mr. Harley Stell, the group performed a variety of songs in performances throughout the Tacoma area.

During the Christmas season, the Choir was featured one evening at the Tacoma Mall. Also during the holidays, the A Cappella Choir joined with the University of Puget Sound Choral Society to present Handel's Messiah. Springtime found the group presenting assemblies for Tacoma grade schools and junior highs. To conclude the year, A Cappella Choir performed at the 1967 Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises in June.

Select Studio Choir Performs at Various Functions

Studio Choir performs for grade school students.

Mr. Phillips joins Studio Choir in " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

"Hi, neighbor; Hi, neighbor!" These friendly words sung by the Wilson Studio Choir were heard in over 50 performances throughout the year. Exploring the medium of the popular ballad, this talented group gained knowledge of music theory. The 20 vocalists acquired self confidence and poise with each performance. While learning to effectively present a variety of tunes, the members developed voice control and learned stage gestures. Through the numerous rehearsals and public appearances, Wilson's active Studio Choir reaped the benefits of providing relaxing entertainment for others.

Wilson's orchestra was composed of the best instrumental talent in the school. Each musician was chosen on the basis of an audition held at the beginning of the year.

Making its official debut at the Thanksgiving Assembly, the group began a busy year. Most concerts coincided with seasons and holidays. In the Christmas program the orchestra united with A Capella Choir to present parts of Handel's Messiah.

A particularly strong string section combined with wind and percussion instruments to produce a smooth blend which pleased the orchestra's audiences.

Remember the red, white, and blue blur that you passed on your way to the refreshment stand at the football games last fall? Remember that brassy blare which cymbaled and bass drummed its way into the school song? That was Wilson's band adding its usual enthusiastic note to such events as games, parades, concerts, and pep assemblies. Led by Mr. Main, the bands contributed the extra boost that made these events spectacular.

Creating musical joy for audiences was not always a pleasure. Many involved practices were held during sixth period each day to perfect marching and instrumental techniques. These efforts were never in vain, though, for the band was rewarded with many compliments after each performance.

Besides being capable musicians the band members were also tremendous salesmen, as their Almond Roca sales proved. The group collected enough in its treasury to finance a trip to the International Music Contest in Canada. As the year drew to a close, the band made its final appearance at commencement, ending a busy and prosperous season.

"Instead of Washington, D.C., with all those dignitaries, a more worthy objective is their largest city — New York."

"The Dilutionist Party is far superior to the Anti-Dilutionist Party."

The mouse roared during four performances on November 17 and 18. The Mouse That Roared, a play based on the novel by Leonnard Wibberley, was a satirical comedy involving the United States and the tiny European duchy, Grand Fenwick.

When Queen Glorianna of Grand Fenwick discovered that the duchy's internationally famous wine was being duplicated by a California winery, she declared war against the United States. A series of ironies placed the United States at the mercy of Grand Fenwick, the roaring mouse. A mood of suspense and humor captured the observers and caused them to roar with laughter.

"This is the Duchy of Grand Fenwick. Our sovereign is the Duchess Gloriana — the Twelfth."

"Don't drop that!"

"What Bomb!"

Mysterious Staging Creates Mood for "Blithe Spirit"

Countless rehearsals, unending memorization, and a spark of imagination went into the production of Blithe Spirit. Under the direction of Mrs. Stonestreet and Mr. Smith, members of the drama department made their presentations on March 16 and 17. The three-act play by Noel Coward takes place in England, where a novelist holds a seance to acquire material for his book. In so doing, he conjures up spirits, suspicion, and murder, making a dramatic and suspense-filled comedy.

Excellent acting and mysterious stage effects created the balance of suspense and humor which made the performance a hit.

"Oh, I've got great contact with the spirit world."

Outstanding Team Efforts Produce Winning Season

On August 31, 13 returning lettermen greeted coaches Harry Bird, Bill Madden, and Barney Neese as the football season got underway for the 1966 Wilson Rams. Sixteen days later the Rams met the Lincoln Abes in the Grid-Go-Round and, showing poorly, were defeated in the opening contest.

But it was a completely different team that took the field against the Olympia Bears the following week. Wilson scored first and held the lead for the remainder of the game, defeating the highly regarded Bears 25 to 20. Ron Lunceford was credited with 16 tackles in the game. During the remaining seven games no team was able to score that many points against the alert Ram defense. Against Stadium the following week the Rams came from behind scoring on an 83-yard drive. The big play of the drive was a 50-yard sprint by senior halfback Joe Pirone. Later in the game sophomore Tony Apostle intercepted a Stadium pass and ran for a touchdown. The Rams won 13 to 6.

Lakes was the next victim of the fired-up Rams. Dave V. Voss on defense and Steve Shelton and Doug Henshaw on offense led a team which proved to be unstoppable. Wilson took the contest 34 to 14, scoring all their points in the first half and using the reserves for most of the third and fourth quarters.

The following week Wilson met and defeated a young Vancouver, B.C., College football squad 34 to 0. In the contest Dave T. J. Voss played outstandingly, and Doug Henshaw carried the football for over a hundred yards

Rams Miss Thanksgiving Day Classic by One Point

With a 4 and 0 record, Wilson met an excellent Mt. Tahoma team in a rainy Friday night contest, suffering its first loss of the season 7 to 0. Then when a win was mandatory to gain a place in the Thanksgiving Day football game, the Rams put forth an inpenetrable defense and crushed the Lincoln Abes 19 to 0. For the first time Wilson had defeated both Lincoln and Stadium in a single season. It looked as though Wilson had won that berth in the Thanksgiving Day classic . . . but it was not to be.

A much-improved Bellarmine squad scored a quick touchdown and then stopped a fourth-quarter drive by the Rams to win the game 7 to 6. In the last game of the season the Rams tied a big West Bremerton football club when a victory was needed to be eligible for the post-season football game.

Although they did not go to the Thanksgiving Day game, Wilson placed five players on the All-City team. Chosen were Dave V. Voss at offensive tackle and defensive end, Ron Lunceford at offensive guard and defensive linebacker, Dave T. J. Voss at offensive center, Doug Henshaw at offensive halfback, and Joe Pirone at defensive halfback. Sophomore Tony Apostle, who led the city league in pass interceptions and sparked the defensive backfield all season long, was given honorable mention by the Tacoma News Tribune.

A few days later senior Dave V. Voss was presented with additional honors, being named as second team tackle on the Washington AP writers' All-State High School Football team.

Led by Coach Carl Moore the cross-country squad completed its most successful year ever. During the season they outpaced every contender and then went on to win the Capital League championship and the North Thurston Invitational Championship, completing the season by finishing 11th in the state meet at Green Lake in Seattle.

Running before and after school on Wilson's new cross-country track and at Point Defiance Park, the team gained the stamina and strength necessary for success. In nearly every meet during the season the effect of the training was shown in the diminishing times of runners.

Among the outstanding and consistent performers on the squad were junior Eric Williams, senior Jon Hayes, senior Dan Poole, and senior Tom Jewell. Williams remained unbeaten by any contender throughout the season and finished 13th in the state meet.

Rams Win Hoop-Go-Round Trophy for First Time

Coach Dan Inveen's basketball team had a year of both triumphs and setbacks. The team was one contender in the evenly-balanced City and Capital Leagues; during the season, they defeated and were defeated by every other team in the leagues.

The Rams began the season by beating Stadium and Bellarmine to gain the first Hoop-Go-Round title in Wilson's history. In the next eight games, Wilson alternated between winning and losing. They achieved victories over Olympia, Lakes, Lincoln, and Mount Tahoma, while losing to Puyallup, Stadium, and twice to Franklin Pierce. Midway through the season, Wilson's record stood at six and five, and from that point on, the Rams had only Capital League teams left to play.

They lost the next five games, although every game was close. In the first loss, Bellarmine was not assured of a win until the last two minutes, and in each of the next four contests, Wilson came within five points of the victor. That losing streak ended all chances of winning the league title. Next, Wilson traveled to the Stadium gym, where they ended their losing streak with a win over the Tigers, going ahead in the final seconds to win 58 to 55. Wilson was hopeful of beating Lincoln the following week but was disappointed, 79 to 69. In the final league game of the season, the Rams came back strong to surprise first-place Bellarmine 80 to 73.

1966-67 was the first season in which a city tournament was held to determine the regional contestant. Wilson met Stadium in the first game of that tournament and advanced to the semi-finals with a 76 to 66 victory. In the semi-finals, however, their hopes of going to the regionals died when they failed to beat Lincoln. The season ended with Wilson second behind first-place Lincoln and Bellarmine, who tied for the city championship.

A week after the tournament, the News Tribune chose its all-city team. Wilson's senior guard, Don Gustafson, was placed on the first five, and seniors Tony Ginn and Dave Voss made the second team. Thus, individual efforts were recognized as the season ended.

Unity within the team and support from the student body combined with the players' skill to give the reserve basketball team top berth in the league. Guided by Coach Sinkovich, the team gave juniors and seniors a chance to compete and acted as back-up for the varsity. In addition, underclassmen gained experience which prepared them for possible varsity positions. Among the team's outstanding members who showed promise as future varsity material were Tom Tuell, Jim Adams, Dennis Fogel, and Mark Harkness.

Dynasty Continues as Rams Defend State Swim Title

Tony Tonelatto crawls to the finish.

The 1966-1967 high school swimming season proved to be another triumphant one for the Rams. Wilson captured its ninth straight city title and its eighth straight state title while winning its one hundredth consecutive victory against high school competition. At the beginning of the season, Coach Hannula announced that this was to be a building year for his swimmers, but those swimmers continued the winning tradition which has made Wilson swim teams the leaders in state high school competition for the past eight years.

Wilson's season started with a victory over every competing high school at University of Puget Sound's A.A.U. sanctioned meet. Before the Ram Relays three weeks later, Wilson defeated Puyallup, Mount Tahoma, and Olympia in three dual meets. Then came the Ram Relays, an important test for Wilson swimmers, for their biggest high school rival, Port Angeles, was present with a strong team, and hopeful of beating the defending state champions. After the final event, however, the score showed that Wilson had taken the meet. In spite of losing, the Port Angeles team went away confident of being able to defeat Wilson on their next encounter. A month later, Port Angeles got its chance, when it met Wilson in the Port Angeles pool. By this time, Wilson had won four other meets and lost one to the University of Washington freshmen. In the closest and most exciting meet of the season, Wilson defeated Port Angeles 49 to 46. The rest of the year only proved Wilson's superiority in swimming. Wilson defeated every City League team and even surprised the Washington State University freshmen in a dual meet at Wilson, 53 to 42. The season ended with the Rams capturing the city title and gaining that hundredth win at the state swimming meet at Seattle by doubling the score of the second place team. At that meet the Rams' two relay teams took first in state, and breaststroker Ron Payne placed ahead of all other swimmers in his event.

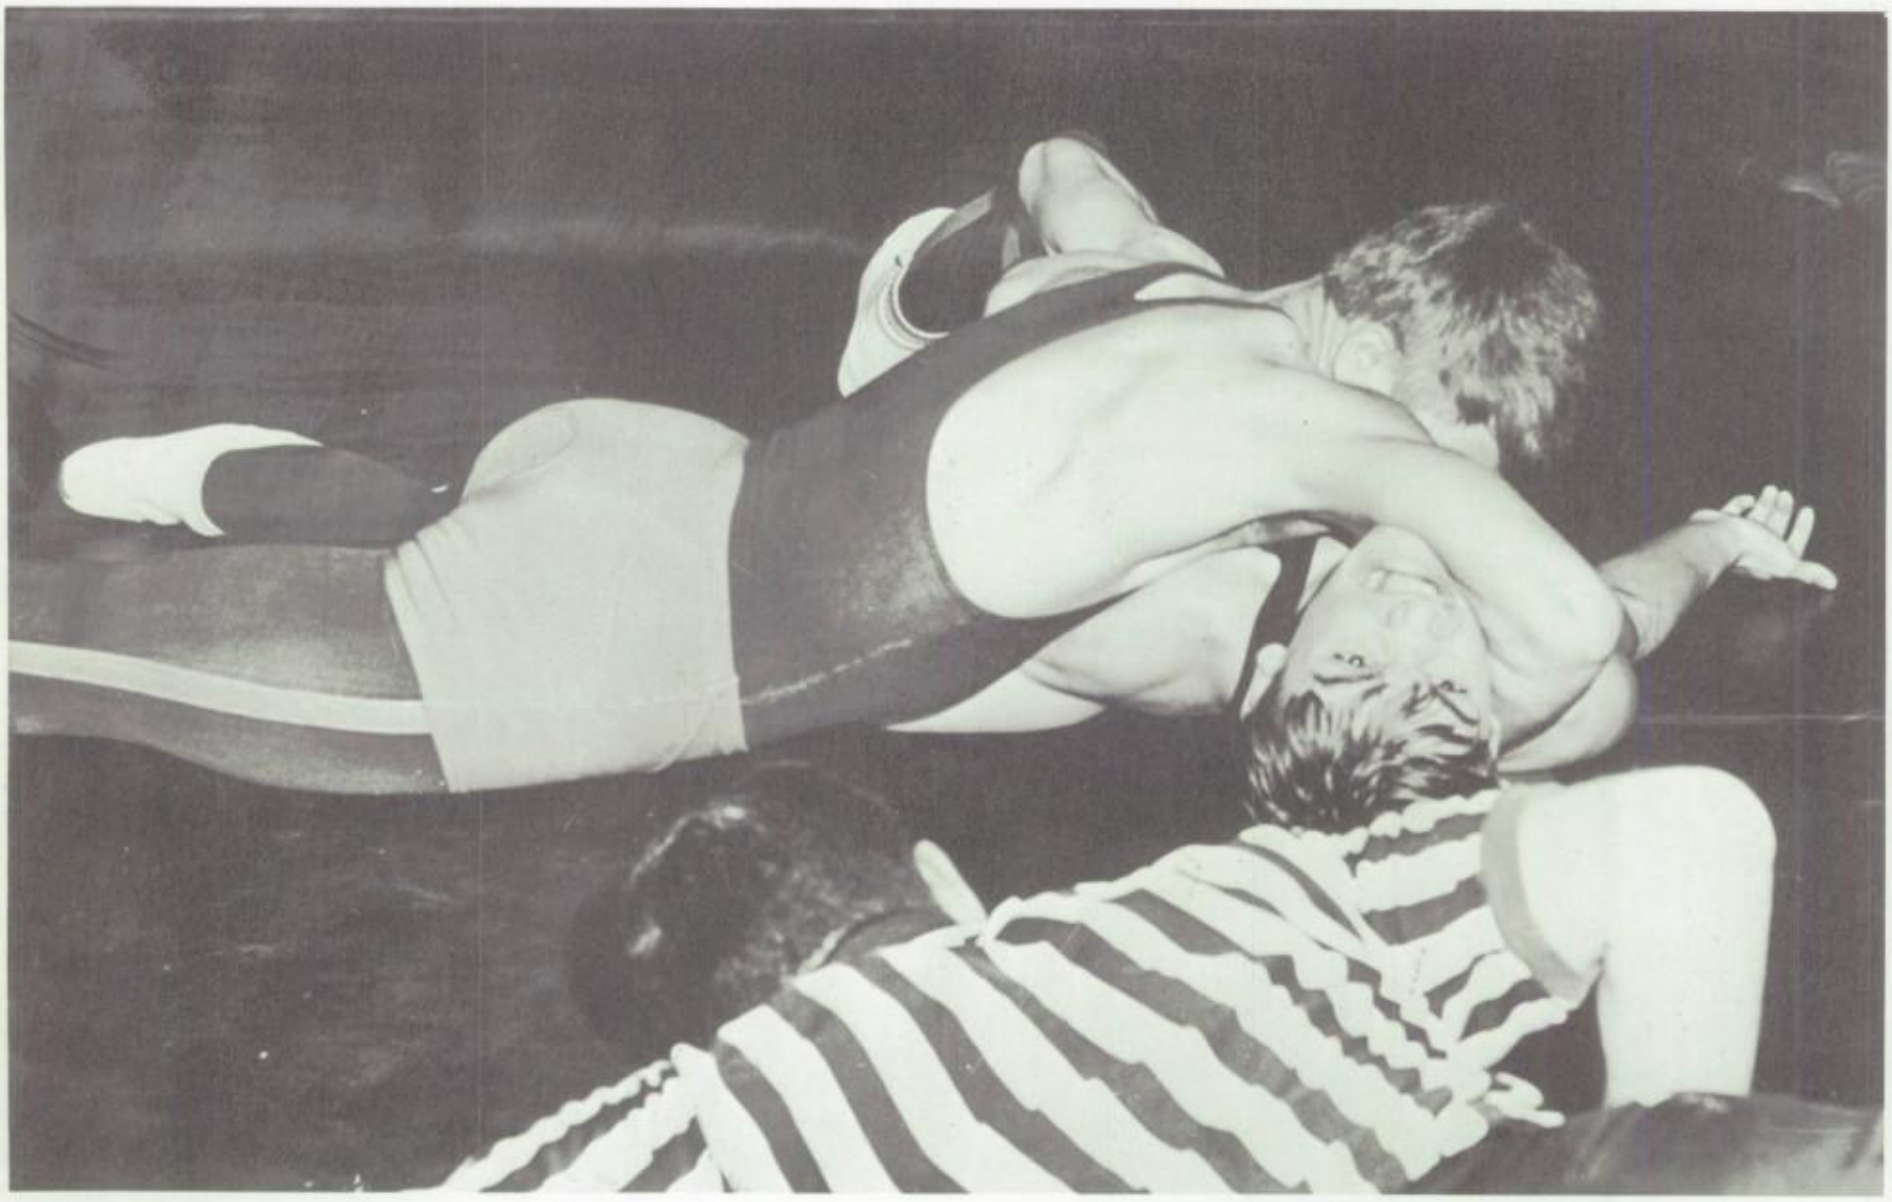
Experience Pays Off – Wilson Takes District Trophy



Doug Henshaw adds to the team total with a first period pin.

Building around nine returning lettermen, Coaches Harry Bird and Barney Neese produced a wrestling team which proved to be the best in the city. The Rams started slow, dropping the first two matches to cross-town rival Stadium and to West Bremerton, defending Capital League champions. In their third match, however, the Rams caught hold and defeated a young Bellarmine squad, 36 to 8. Just before Christmas vacation started, Wilson evened its record to two wins and two losses by beating Mount Tahoma 25 to 19 in the Mount Tahoma gym.

Christmas vacation was spent training for the Curtis match, and the work paid off. Wilson came within four points of the Vikings, losing 26 to 22.

Two weeks later came the biggest match thus far in the season — the re-match with the Stadium Tigers. Wilson was hopeful of a victory, but was disappointed 23 to 21. The loss kept the Rams from finishing on top in the City League race, but it discouraged no one. Every Ram wrestler set his sights on the district finals, the last opportunity for the 1967 wrestling team to show its superiority in the City League. In the next four matches, Wilson lost only one — the re-match against West Bremerton.

Then came the district match. Wilson sent 11 wrestlers into the competition. Eight of those wrestlers reached the finals, as Wilson took the lead to stay after the first round of competition. There were doubtful moments, but Wilson finally clinched the victory, when 164-pound Ron Lunceford defeated Dennis Smith of Mount Tahoma, 3 to 2. The Rams' victory, the third district title in Wilson's history, ended Stadium's string of five straight district titles.

Four Rams won their weight divisions in the district meet. These four — Tim Mylner, Bill Dowling, Doug Henshaw, and Ron Lunceford, traveled to Ellensburg the following week, where they competed in the state wrestling tournament. Tim Mylnar, the most successful Wilson wrestler at the tournament, reached the semi-finals before being defeated.

Reserve Swimmers Undefeated During Prep Season

Equaling the perfect season of the varsity was Wilson's reserve swim team. Under the direction of coach James Boettcher, the members competed against each other for better times, improving as the year progressed. They supplemented their water work-outs with land exercises using weights and isometric and semi-isometric equipment.

After completing the prep season undefeated, the squad went on to smash all competition in the County Meet by finishing first and second in every event except diving, where they scored first and third.

Among the many outstanding swimmers on this year's squad were Doug Murphy, Greg Patjens, Pete Brady, Steve Carr, and Steve Fuson.

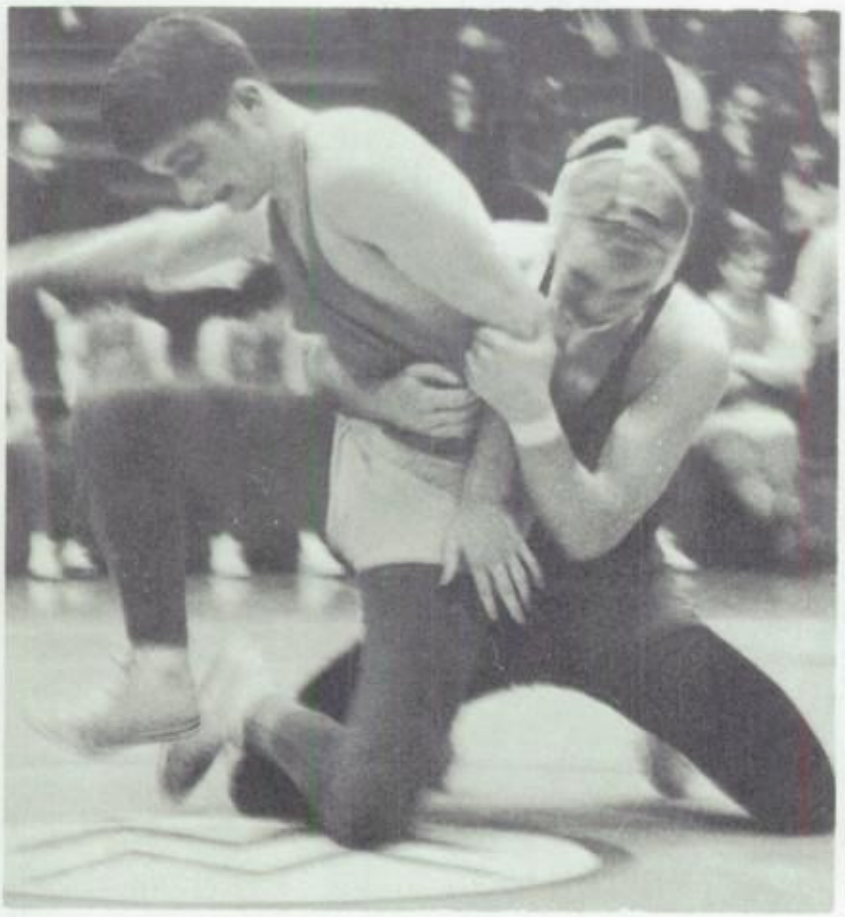
Reserve Wrestlers Are Vital to Success of Varsity



Bruce Ellingson wrestles reserves in the 138-pound division.

In the 1966-67 wrestling season, the reserve wrestling squad proved to be of importance to the team. At every practice coaches matched reserve and varsity of each weight for exercises and drills. The day before each match the top reserve wrestler had the privilege of challenging for the varsity spot. During the season some reserve wrestlers including John Scholer, Bruce Ellingson, Phil Kuhl, and Terry Velacich wrestled in varsity meets. Besides helping to train the varsity the reserve wrestlers worked to better their own abilities. There were many challenges among the young wrestlers for a chance to wrestle in the reserve meet before each varsity match. Many sophomores won positions on the reserve squad and showed potential for building a strong team in the future. John Hickey, Dick Cvitanich, Steve Scharff and Dave Ereth lead the sophomores. Those and others will be names to look for in future varsity wrestling teams at Wilson.

Seeking his fifth league championship, Coach Scott loaded the team with six talented sophomores. Among those, Tony Apostle, Wayne Cowan, and Larry DeRoux earned positions on the starting eleven.

Competing in a league with one of the state's best track teams Wilson settled for second position in the city behind Lincoln. The Rams, however, were the strongest in one area, distance running. Junior Eric Williams compiled excellent times in the two-mile while Dan Poole and Roger Fenter dominated the 880-yard run. Sophomore Dave Rorem was also a standout in the sprints. Among the graduating seniors who performed well for Wilson were Grant Parker, Doug Henshaw, Rod Vander Vaart, Jim Norton, Al Ross and Dan Poole.

Excellent Wilson Reserves Assure a Bright Future

All track team members who didn't win varsity letters composed the reserve track team. They practiced alog with the varsity and participated in varsity meets. After the season they traveled to a meet of their own in Puyallup. Track for the reserves afforded an opportunity to develop skills and to train for varsity athletics.

With a reserve team composed mostly of sophomores, Coach Templin contributed much to the future of baseball at Wilson. Gaining experience through reserve league games, reserve ball players worked for the time when they would wear varsity uniforms for Wilson. Watching and helping each other and learning to work as a team became important to the reserves. The result of their efforts was a winning season and a better knowledge of the game.

Reserve George Tibbits competes in the 880.

With the support of three returning lettermen, Brick Kane, Jim Cary, and Don Gustafson, Wilson, under the direction of Coach Terrance Brown battled for second position behind Bellarmine. Wilson shared the championship with Stadium and Bellarmine last year but lost its three best tennis players. Traveling outside the city for matches Wilson defeated Charles Wright and Hudson's Bay. Helping to fill the shoes of last year's graduating seniors were sophomore Ed Carlson and junior Terry Wright.

Talented Golfers Make Wilson a Top State Contender

City and Capital League golf championship belonged to Wilson's varsity again in 1967. With four returning lettermen from last year's championship squad, the Rams not only took the league championships but also became the strongest contenders in the state golf tournament. Under the direction of Coach Don Shaff and using Meadow Park as home course, Wilson's golfers fought throughout the year for position.

In the end juniors Kim Wenger and Gary Clinton dominated the top two spots while two other juniors, Tom Tuell and Brad Murray, alternated between third and fourth positions.

Calling his squad the best rifle team in Wilson's history, Coach Hildreth had to be satisfied with second place in the Evergreen Rifle League, finishing behind the Lakes shooting club and losing the championship for the first time in six years. In spite of losing the trophy the shooting Rams finished with the highest scores ever recorded by a Wilson shooting team. The Rams sent eight men to every match including four seniors, three juniors and a sophomore. Top shooter was senior Steve Goodwin; sophomore Robert Wendt was also a standout.

Gymnasts Work on Skills During Weekly Turn-outs

Practicing gymnastics every week in the gym, the members of the gymnastics club developed skill in the many aspects of the sport. With a fit body as their goal and the techniques of gymnastics as their guide lines, the members often warmed up together with calesthenics and tumbling. Then each member would concentrate on the event which interested him the most, whether it was the trampoline, the parallel bars, or the spring board.

Sophomore Mike Voeller works out on the trampoline.

Catering to those who either did not have the time or the experience to compete on the varsity level, intramurals offered boys a chance for participation in a number of athletic activities. These activities, such as volleyball, basketball, weight lifting, and water polo, made exercise available to those who desired it.

Gym Leaders, Managers Serve Athletic Department

Both the student leaders who led classes and kept student records, and the managers who issued and took inventory of athletic supplies did time-consuming and invaluable work for the school this year.

Learning the methods of physical education while keeping in shape for athletics, this year's student leaders served their school as well as themselves. The school's student managers also served a dual purpose by managing the school's athletic supplies while gaining a knowledge of athletic training and management.

"Team fight! Team fight! Fight, fight!" This was one of several new yells made familier by this year's pep staff. The responsibilities of the song and cheer leaders reached beyond cheering at games and assemblies, however. They worked hard in Pep Club and represented Wilson at a pep conference at Stadium. They helped organize an all-city high school pep parade before the Grid-Go-Round.

Before each football game they made and sold pep ribbons with appropriate phrases such as "Stomp Stadium" and "Lynch the Lions." Another idea executed by this year's ambitious staff was the formation of a student tunnel for the football team. To encourage school spirit they led the students in the Alma Mater after each game.

Comprising this year's staff were cheer leaders Marc Christianson, Paul Stensen, Jeanette Petersen, and Donna Asplund, and song leaders Jan Busch, Sue Crosby, Carol Anderson, and Janet Tollefson.

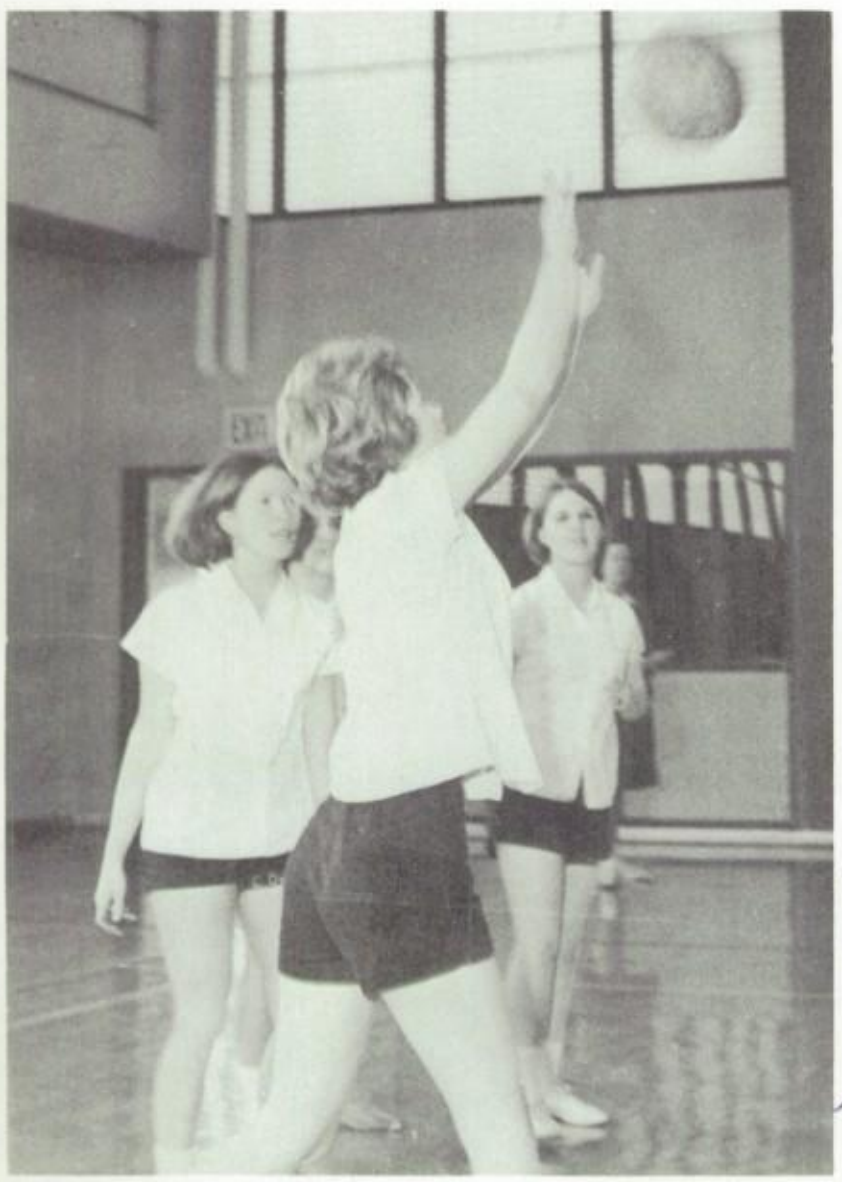
Diversified Program Provides Exercise for Girls



Sophomores demonstrate their skill in volleyball.

One of the basic classes at Wilson is physical education for sophomore girls. This year the classes concentrated on two main areas: exercising and team sports. For two-thirds of the year the girls participated in speedball, tennis, volleyball, basketball, badminton, and baseball. The remaining third of the year they swam in one of three classes. In beginning and intermediate swimming, the girls learned new strokes and spent time practicing for perfection. Advanced swimmers worked hard to learn life saving techniques and to earn the senior life saving certificate.

Another important facet in the girls' physical education was the intra-mural program. Each week the girls had the opportunity to participate in team sports, and during certain months those interested had the privilege of using the swimming pool. Miss Blaser ran the program efficiently, helping to keep Wilson girls physically fit.

Dear Donna,
It was fun trying to eat all that food we cooked in Hom Ec. wasn't it. You are a nice person and very friendly. Have a nice summer

Cadymettes perform to "Roaring 20's" theme at UPS.

"To the right face!" This familiar call was heard by the Cadymettes as they marched during half-time shows at football and basketball games. Under the supervision of Mrs. Stonestreet, 30 girls worked to synchronize their various routines. To add to the interest of the group, the girls varied their costumes for each performance. Climaxing the year was the Daffodil Parade, where the drill team gave a fine demonstration of talent and skill.

For the first time in the history of the Cadymettes the club sponsored a dance. This helped to finance the costume variations and other club activities. This year's officers were Diane Vincent, president; Sue Telken, vice president; Leslie Knowlen, secretary-treasurer; Frances Johnson, drill leader; and Suzette Dover, assistant drill leader.

Girls Receive Letters Through Participation in Wiona

Wilson Girls' Athletic Association, Wiona, functioned as the basic supporter of girls' intramurals. Members of the club were those girls who had previously earned letters by participating in athletic activities. To earn a letter, a total of four points was required. Girls earned these points by devoting a certain number of hours to four different sports.

This year's president was Linda Gilmore. Along with Miss Blaser, supervisor, and the other officers — Chris Burmark, vice president; Lorri Gilmur, secretary, and Jean Causin, treasurer — Linda planned the year's activities. Among their activities were hikes and after school basketball, volleyball, and swimming. Meeting bi-monthly, this club was supported by an interested group of hard-working girls.

Doll-Phins Swim to Music of Famous Composers

Swimming to the music of Rodgers and Hammerstein, Doll-Phins, Wilson's synchronized swimming group, put on their annual show. Guided by Miss Blaser, the girls perfected stunts and numbers for the show. A new practice routine was initiated this year. The girls worked together on stunts and received individual help when needed.

Doll-Phins met every Thursday night from October to May. Meetings were run by Linda Knipher, president; Teresa Kobleski, vice president; Shirley Richards, secretary; Debbie Stein, treasurer; Kay Kipp, show chairman.

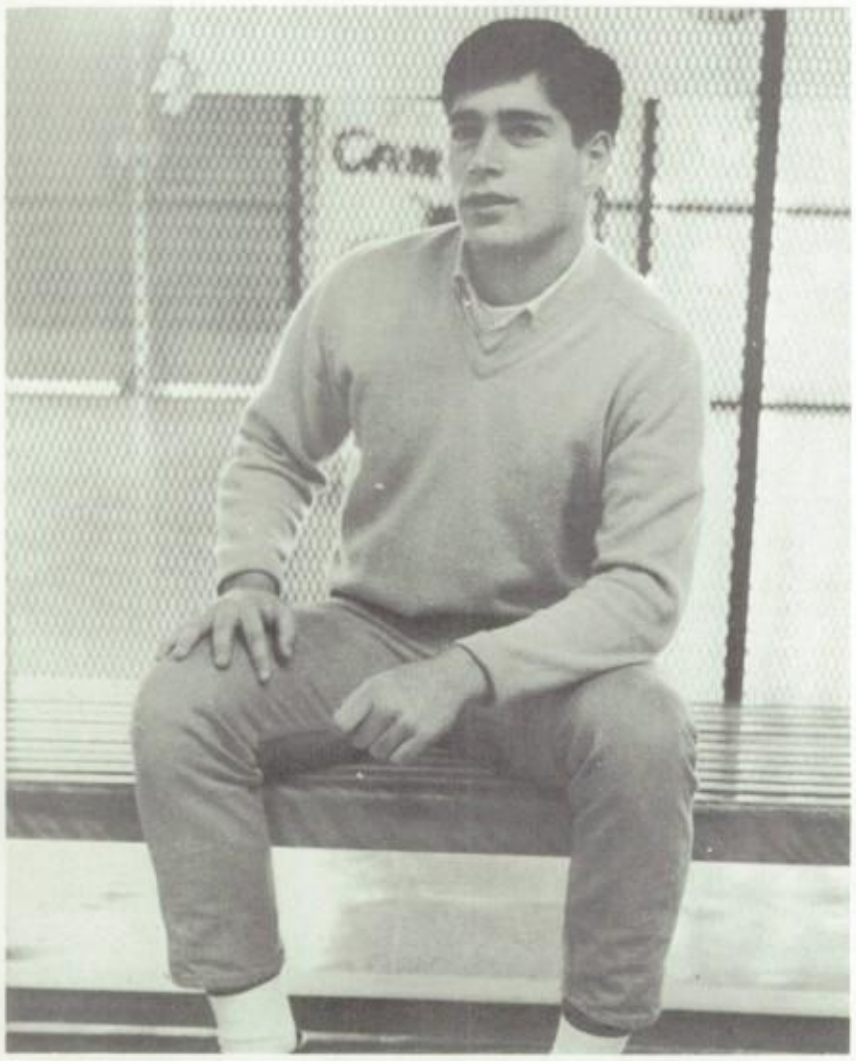
Capable Sophomore Officers Plan Class Activities



Tony Apostle

Sophomores received an enthusiastic welcome from the students during Howdy Week; but a few weeks later the administration hit them with the challenge of the D.A.T. After being defeated several times in class competition they rallied with a successful return address label sale. The powder puff football game gave the girls the opportunity to demonstrate their athletic prowess in defeating the upper classmen.

The year was climaxed with the traditional Sophomore May Dance. The sophomores now eagerly anticipated their future at Wilson as juniors.

Class Officers Reveal Many Leadership Qualities

Upon returning to Wilson last fall, the juniors applied their special talents to the projects and problems awaiting them. First on the list was the sale of adult activity tickets, undertaken last year as the permanent junior project.

"Do You Believe in Magic?" was the theme of the Junior Prom, and hard-working committee members made the semi-formal dance a success. The school year was climaxed by the Farewell-to-Seniors Dance, where sophomores and juniors said a final "farewell" to the Class of '67.

The Class of '67 entered its last year at Wilson with enthusiastic anticipation. The school spirit, which had been held back during the two previous years, was unleashed as the seniors welcomed the incoming sophomores, supported their teams at games, and planned the traditional Sadie Hawkins Dance and the Senior Ball. Christmas found loyal seniors struggling to sell Christmas cards in an effort to build up the class treasury. Senior Week featured such events as Western Day, the Senior Banquet and the Senior Cruise. One of the events most looked forward to by seniors was the Baccalaureate Service just preceding graduation. With the Commencement exercises, a gratifying and memorable year came to an end.

Wilson Sponsors Second Foreign Exchange Student

"When I see you, I'll just smile." These were the words spoken by Shimeles Ayele at the opening assembly. Shim, Wilson's A.F.S. student from Ambo, Ethiopia, made his home with the H. Williams family.

Shim's school load included physics, Student Council, English, American government and others. Besides this, Shim belonged to Interact, History Society, and A.F.S. Club. Shim turned out for track and attended other Wilson athletic events.

Not limited to school activities only, Shim was kept busy making speeches, sightseeing, and joining other foreign students for A.F.S. functions. Shim also went skiing, hunting, and mountain climbing.

"I want to tell you all how much I enjoyed Wilson," said Shim. With memories of Shakey's pizza, his 17th birthday party, and the Girls' Club Tolo, Shim has much to tell his friends in Ethiopia.

Students help Shim celebrate his birthday.

Queen Margie and King Ed Reign Over Homecoming

Principal Maynard Ponko crowns Margie Swanstrom Queen of the 1966 Homecoming.

Reigning over Homecoming activities this year was Queen Margie Swanstrom. Margie's escort during the week of November 22-25 was the hairiest man of '66, beard-growing contest winner Ed Brewster. Also presiding with Margie were senior attendant Janet Tollefson, escorted by student body president Steve Shelton; junior attendant Amalia Annest, escorted by class president Jim Speir; and sophomore attendant Karen Hanson, escorted by class president Tony Apostle.

Activities began on Tuesday, November 22, with Dress-Up Day and the traditional Thanksgiving assembly presented by Girls' Club. Red, white, and blue were seen on Wednesday, which was Colors Day. The seniors, wearing blue, came out on top and won the class competition points. Also on Wednesday the sophomore girls broke with tradition and captured the powder puff football contest from the seniors.

Friday night the Wilson Lettermen defeated the Alumni 49-46 in an exciting basketball encounter. Climaxing the week was "Days of Pop and Pansies," the dance which followed the game. During intermission, co-chairmen Peni Cregar and Russ Pinto introduced the royal court, and Mr. Ponko crowned the Queen.

Carol Stine, Sophomore Attendant; Bianca Mattson, Junior Attendant; Trudi Hagensen, Queen; Wendy Robins, Senior Attendant.

Trudi Haagensen Crowned Queen of Girls' Club Tolo

On February 4, Wilson's Girls' Club transformed the Tacoma Mall into a ballroom for their annual tolo, "Sweetheart Tree." 450 couples donned formal attire to enjoy a gala evening of dancing.

The crowd was held in suspense until intermission, when Mr. Ponko presented Trudi Haagensen with a dozen red roses and the Queen's crown. Carol Stine was selected as sophomore attendant, Bianca Mattson as junior attendant, and Wendy Robbins as senior attendant. The announcement of the royal court provided an exciting highlight for the festive evening.

Daffodil Princess Patt Tonnema.

Princess Patt Represents Wilson in Daffodil Festival

As Spring approached, Tacomans anticipated the coming of the Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival. Especially awaiting this annual event were the nine high school princesses who made up the Royal Court.

At Wilson, semi-finals were held in early January to select three girls to represent the school in the finals at Stadium. From a field of 20 girls, the judges selected Patt Tonnema, Andrea Moe and Susan Fisher as finalists. On January 26, these girls were judged on the basis of 30 per cent for speaking ability, 30 per cent for poise, and 40 per cent for appearance. After weighing all these points the judges announced their decision. Patt Tonnema was selected to participate in the 34th Festival as Wilson's eighth Princess.

Highlighting the activities was the Coronation and the Daffodil Parade. Though constantly busy, Patt learned much through an experience which she will never forget.

Patt speaks before judges at semi-finals.

Patt beams after her selection as Wilson's Daffodil Princess.

The fulfillment of men's needs for aesthetic expression was also left up to us.

Music was left unsung and dramas unplayed.

Donna,
It's been two years and I hope the next 2
years are the same.
Have a real nice summer and a
see ya next year.
Love always,
Doreen

Dear Donna,
Even though
I've known you for such a short time, you're a good head! Don't forget me!
P.S. Love Ya!
Maybe
see ya this summer!
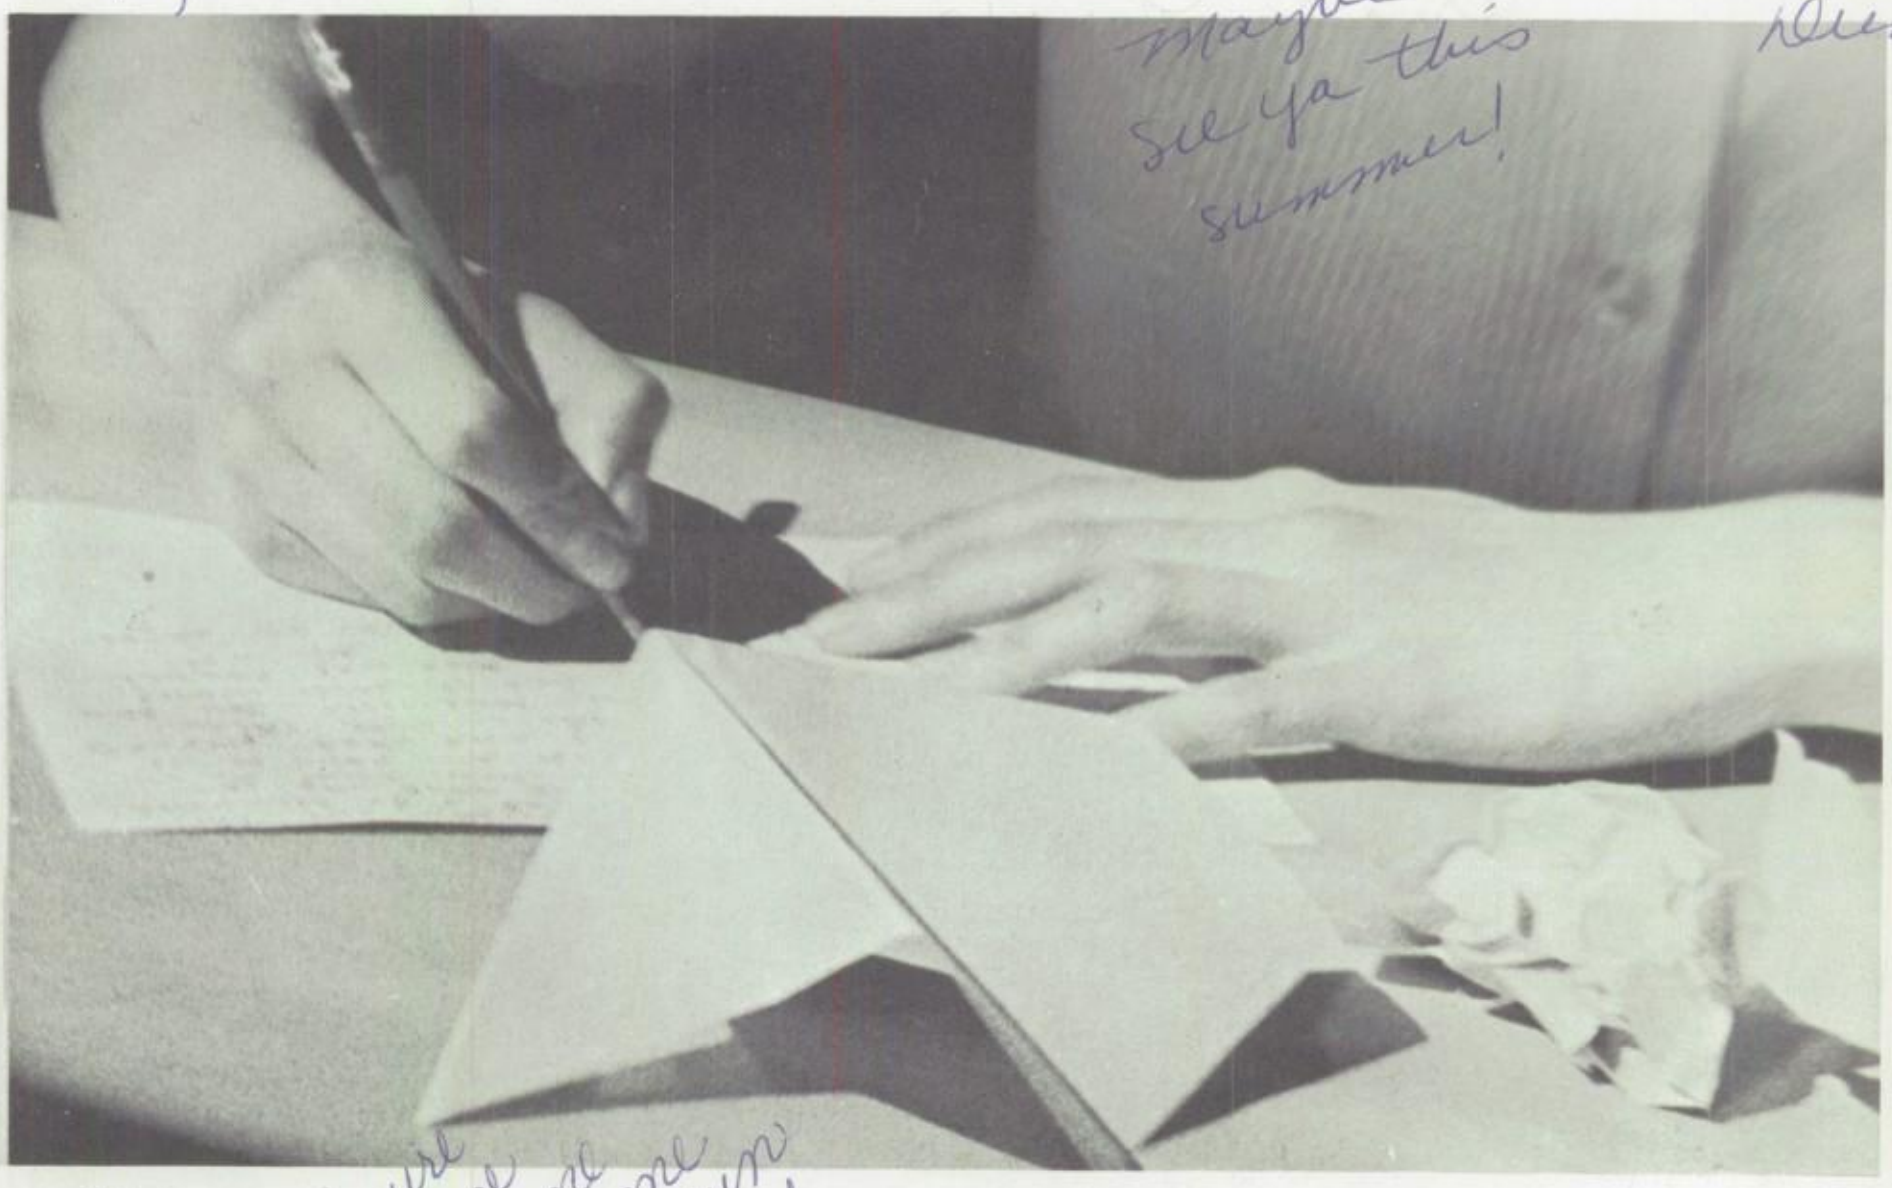
Dee



Donna,
I'm sure glad I got to know you in Lit. I'll
'cause I think you're really a doll. I hope
I can see ya sometime this summer and some classes next year! Have fun this summer ... and take it easy!
Love

Poetry was left undreamed.

All of this was left undone so that people might not be bored, but take part in the stimulating and exciting activities that keep them thinking, experimenting, and experiencing the endurable joys and satisfactions of creation.

- Donna -
Have fun this summer with Pony;
Even though he is simple (ha, ha,).
You're a real cute redhead.
Good Luck
-this summer.
Love, Jan

Donna -
It's been just great getting to know you this year in gym class & these last couple of weeks at in Lit!
You're really a cute girl -
Keep smiling, have a groovy summer - & I hope to have ya in a couple 'a classes next year! Be good -
Love,
Sue Lundberg

Dear Donna,
It's been lots of fun knowing you these few weeks. Don't feel too bad about being a Sophomore it's almost all over. Have lots of fun during the future.
Love,

Dear Donna,

It's been a real blast knowing ya the past year. You're a real smart kid with a great personality and a lot of really jokes. But, I think you're just darling. I hope to see ya this summer. Call me up sometimes. Best of luck always. See ya next year.

Love,
Judy M.

Dear Donna,
Well another year is gone. It was

Donna,
Because the Game has me
very sweet and be a lovable girl. (This is
So I will write
very special. . . .

Love & Luck
Donna

Dear Donna,
Been a real gas in ol' Roll Room. And just think we still got 2 more year in this place and then we can Grad U.E.T.
And go out to that crumby crowd
Yeah!! '69"
Lots o' Luck
Pete

Hi Donna, well, we only have two years left - do ya think we'll make it?? English
with Meinhard (SP)?
has been fun,
kinda weird, but
fun. Have fun
this summer,
& I'll see ya next year - maybe we'll be in the same English
class! Love Ya

Well well well
well well well well
Been fun; gotta run
school over; gotta
head for those fields of clover.
Really Donna its really been great in roll. see ya next year.
